

Kyushu University Asia Week 2023

~ A Week to Seek Asia ~

#DiscoverSustainableAsia

SDGs Special Session Efforts for vacant house measures in Itoshima by the Municipality and Students

Date
Time

2023.11/9 (Thu)
13:00 ~ 14:30

Venue
Language

Zoom (Online)
Japanese

Registration (free)

Use the QR code or access to Kyushu University
Asia Week 2023 Official site.

<https://asiaweek.kyushu-u.ac.jp/en>

Outline

The number of vacant houses is increasing every year as the population declines and ages, causing problems such as the decline of suburban residential areas due to vacant houses, deterioration of the local landscape, waste of resources, and crime prevention risks. Various measures are being undertaken to solve the problem of vacant houses, and vacant houses are being rehabilitated and utilized. However, many people do not know whether there are actually many vacant houses, what measures are being taken for vacant houses, and how they are being utilized. Based on the current situation and problems of vacant houses in Japan, this program introduce the policies, support projects, and projects conducted by Itoshima City and Kyushu University, and talk about what is needed in terms of future measures for vacant houses and their utilization.

Program/Speaker

13:00~13:25 Opening
「Actual conditions and countermeasures for vacant houses in Japan」
Kyushu University Institute for Asian and Oceanian Studies
Research Assistant Prof. Dongki HONG

13:00~13:25
「Current situation and measures for vacant houses in Itoshima」
Itoshima city office, Regional Promotion Department Community Promotion Division
Section Head Maki FUDAMOTO

13:50~14:15
「Activities of the Itoshima Vacant Houses Project」
Itoshima Vacant Houses Project Advisor/Kyushu University
Prof. Takeru SAKAI

13:50~14:15
「Activities of the Itoshima Vacant Houses Project」
Itoshima Vacant Houses Project Executive Director/Kyushu University Master's Course Fumihiro FUJIWARA

Contact

I2CNER•Q-PIT Office

✉ aoevent@jimu.kyushu-u.ac.jp

[Host] Kyushu University Institute for Asian and Oceanian Studies [Sponsorship] Itoshima